RANDY GAGE

The Role of Ego to Manifest Prosperity!

Key Study Points

All that separates you from the $5 or $10 worth of elements is your ego.

Lose the perception that ego must relate to self-love, narcissism or vanity.

The desire to be great and be recognized for greatness is healthy.

Feeling the need to openly express your greatness is a sign that you haven't taken control of your ego. (Often caused by insecurity.)

Your ego is subject to guidance and control.

Make a conscious choice to use your ego for good.

Create a healthy ego through voluntary habits which you deliberately and thoughtfully develop.

Your ego can be your greatest asset or your biggest liability.

You can't master anything until you master your ego.

KEY: You possess your ego or it possesses you.

The process to controlling your ego involves using self-control to transmute it into a desired purpose.

6 Elements of a Healthy Ego

- 1) Direct it to a higher purpose
- 2) Pursue it with passion
- 3) Analyze with critical thinking
- 4) Take continuous action
- 5) Control with self-discipline
- 6) Have a support group

A healthy ego allows you to harness your philosophy and principles into POWER!

Insights from Napoleon Hill:

- 1) Align with people who will coordinate their minds toward attainment of a definite purpose. (The Mastermind)
- 2) Adopt a definitive plan to obtain the object of that alliance.
- 3) Remove yourself from people who make you doubt or feel inferior.
- 4) Close the door on any past failures.
- 5) Your thoughts are the building blocks to your ego.
- 6) Surround yourself with every possible physical means to impress your mind with the nature and purpose of the ego you're developing.
- 7) A balanced ego is always under control of the individual. (A desire to control others is a sure sign of egomania.)
- 8) Your ego is always undergoing changes—because of the nature of your thoughts.

The Role of Ego to Manifest Prosperity

- » Give it a purpose and series of goals
- » Nurture with positive programming
